Montaville Flowers

Appears at the City Opera House.

In an Adaptation of "The Merchant of Venice".

Montaville Flowers, who appeared on the Lecture Course, Thursday evening, has won for himself a high place among the monologists of the country. His cuttings of the various plays which he presents are artistic and his powers of impersonation are great. He has a personality which would compell the attention of an audience if he were reading a thesis on higher mathematics and a power of varying his facial expression which adds interest to the interpretation of the masterpiece, which he presents.

Mr. Flowers was seen Thursday evening in "The Merchant of Venice." And the audience was pleased with his work. His transitions from one character to another were rapid, easy and distinctive, his voice work was splendid and his interpretation was pronounced good by Shakespearean critics. His Shylock lacked some of the dignity which many read into the part but his presentation of the character was consistent throughout. Portia was hardly as satisfactory. Mr. Flowers attempted an effeminacy for which his voice is not adapted, Antonio, Bassanio and Gratiano, each received a touch which characterized them for the evening. The comedy element which he introduced in the characters of Lancelot, old Gobbo and Tubal, was refreshing and was appreciated by the audience.

In the scene between Shylock and Tubal the intensity of the former's feeling was made to stand out more clearly by the stolidness which he read into the lines of the latter. In this scene, too, he reached the climax of his interpretation of the Jew's character alternating as he does between sorrow and rage at the loss of his ducats and joy at Antonio's misfortune.

Hoover Cottage

At Home Tuesday Evening.

"Christmas Party" at the Dorm.

The young women of Hoover Cottage entertained a number of their friends at a "Christmas Party" last Tuesday evening. The house was decorated in evergreen and "A Merry Christmas" greeted the guests at the door.

Old Santa himself favored the company with his presence and made his appearance in the dining room at half past eight o'clock. On a tree with lighted candles was found a gift for each member of the assembled company selected with a view to his merits or demerits. After the gifts were distributed, refreshments were served and the remainder of the evening spent in the usual way.

Wooster Alumni

At Princeton Hold Reunion

[Special Correspondence.]

The Wooster alumni in Princeton Seminary enjoyed a pleasant reunion as a part of their Thanksgiving season festivities. Ralph Hickok, '99, and Paul Axtell, '03, played hosts in an admirable manner. H. M. Gage, '00, Philosophy P. G. in Columbia University and Frank Crowl, '03, U. of P. Medical, were guests of honor. Besides the hosts the "Seminole" present were G. C. Fisher, '00, Harry Finney, Burgett Welsh and W. Meeker, '02; Lee Wilson and Burt Harrison, '03, and Odell, ex '02. George Brewer, '02, was absent in Wooster. Wooster stories were told, Wooster memories renewed, Wooster's yells mingled with Princeton's, and a general Wooster good time enjoyed.

Wooster's Endowment Must Come from Ohio.

Copies of the following letter were mailed to the Presbyterian Ministers of Ohio Saturday by Pres. Holden. In the letter he states clearly the conditions of the endowment fund and shows that the work of raising the million must be taken up by the Church in Ohio. He says in part:

"You will be interested to know that the canvass for Ohio's quota of the $12,000,000 fund, which the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church requested us to raise to endow our Presbyterian colleges throughout the United States, has already begun in some of our churches.

Ohio's quota, according to our membership is $1,200,000 or an average of $12 per member. The Synod voted unanimously that $1,000,000 of this amount, or an average of $10 per member; should be devoted to the endowment of its own Synodical college at Wooster. To attain Ohio's quota, every minister pledged his strongest efforts. It was to be "a battle of the captains" who are the heads of our six hundred and fifty churches.

We have received reports from three churches. The church at Greenville of the Presbytery of Dayton, having 289 members, has sent in pledges toward endowment in cash and notes bearing five per cent interest, $2,480, and in addition a pledge of $2,000 in a will. The Third Street Church of Dayton has just completed its canvass. It has 575 members and it has sent in to our treasurer, $6,990 in cash and notes. The canvass is still going on in the First Presbyterian Church of Dayton, which has 466 members. Their report at this time is close to $3,000 and they hope to make up their full quota.

It is not necessary that the 1905 Again Lands Basket Ball Championship

Hard Fought Game with the Freshmen.

Wednesday evening witnessed the final and most exciting game of the basket ball tournament when the Juniors played the Freshmen. The contest was interesting from the whistle and although the Juniors expected the victory, the underclassmen put up a pretty fight which made the game a fitting climax for the series.

By virtue of their victory over the Freshmen and Sophomores who in turn defeated the Seniors and Preps respectively, the championship of the tournament goes to the Junior class.

Last year 1905 defeated 1906 by a score of 40 to 17 points and 1907 21, to 17. This year, she played the same teams and the result was two more victories. With 1906 the score was 38 to 20 and the last game with 1907, 24 to 22. The Junior team has a fine record. Her sum total scores for the two years being 123 points to 76 for her opponents.

Wednesday evening's game was fast and furious and was by far the finest exhibition of basket ball put up on the floor this year. The Juniors were over confident and allowed a large number of goals to be scored by the Freshmen which careful playing would have eliminated. Since the Juniors were at the top of the list in the tournament and had won last year, everyone in the house but the members of the class were rooting for 1907. Enthusiasm ran high and there is no doubt that more spirit was shown at this than at any other game ever played on the local floor.

Both sides made a large number of fouls, but the Freshmen were by far the worse offenders, making 12 to their opponents five.

Financially the tournament was a success. The proceeds will be devoted to the interests of the University team and will probably go to new equipment which is very much needed.

The Messiah.

Handel's Great Oratorio Sung at the Chapel

Second Anniversary Concert.

A large and thoroughly representative audience gathered in Memorial Chapel on Friday evening to hear the Second Anniversary Concert, given by the Oratorio Chorus of the University, under the direction of Professor J. Byron Gliver, assisted by Mrs. Sarah MacDonald Sheridan, Contralto, Miss Frances Alice Glenn, Soprano, Messrs. Ewald Sontum and Henry Weiler, Violinists, and Mr. Carey E. McAfee, Organist.

The program consisted of two parts, of which the first comprised numbers by the assisting artists, while the second was composed of solos and choruses from Handel's Oratorio of the Messiah.

The mixed program was a thoroughly classical one, and was so chosen and arranged as to constitute at once a strong contrast to the Messiah numbers and an admirable prelude to them. The keynote of the occasion was struck in the delicious Pastoral Symphony with which Handel introduces those parts of the Messiah which deal directly with the Nativity of Our Lord. Mr. McAfee's work in presenting this, as well as in the second movement of the concerto which followed, where the organ was heard in place of the piano, and in the accompaniments to the oratorio numbers, was of the most scholarly characters, and contributed greatly to the enjoyment and success of the evening.

The second number, Bach's Concerto for Two Violins and Piano, was rendered in masterly fashion by Mr. Sontum, his pupil Mr. Weiler, and Miss Riggs. This concerto, which is in Bach's most characteristic manner, consists of three movements, two allegros separated by a largo. Of these the slow movements, in which, as already noted, the organ was substituted for the piano, probably gave the keenest pleasure to the audience, but all were interpreted in the spirit of the great composer himself, and thoroughly merited the enthusiastic applause which was accorded them.

The following number was a triple one for contralto voice, and was the occasion of the appearance of Mrs. Sarah MacDonald Sheridan of Philadelphia. Mrs. Sheridan has a charming personality and a rich and cultivated voice of unusual range and sympathetic quality. Her powers were finely displayed in the two strongly contrasted songs by Richard Strauss, the strenuous and aspiring Vision of Glory and the tender Heimkehr (The Return Home). But her greatest triumph was to come in the third number, the familiar Scotch fish-wife's song, Caller Herrin'. Here the largeness and range of the soloist's voice, the purity of her tones at both extremes of her register, but particularly the 'cello like quality of the low tones, and her dramatic power, gave the highest pleasure, and won applause that could not be stilled until she returned to give an encore. This was Margaret Lang's familiar and favorite composition, An Irish Love Song. It was rendered without accompaniment, and standing in contrast with the Scotch number to which it served as encore, produced a charming effect.

The fourth and last number of the mixed program was Gypsy Melodies for the violin by Sarasate, the famous Spanish virtuoso. The three movements, the brilliant introduction, the lullaby, and the dance movement, were saturated with the gypsy spirit, and gave Mr. Weiler opportunity for a brilliant display of his powers, both in tone production and in technique. He was insistently recalled, and responded with Schumann's Abendlied. In connection with the pleasure given by the Sarasate number it may not be out of place to call attention to the reproduction in the current number of the Review of Reviews of the late James McNeill Whistler's wonderful portrait of Sarasate, the property of the Carnegie Art Gallery, Pittsburg.

The second part of the program consisted of eight numbers from the Messiah. Although so small a fraction of the whole work was given, Professor Oliver's skill and artistic feeling had so chosen and arranged the selections that the general movement of this great religious classic was finely suggested. Beginning with the Contralto Solo and Chorus, O Thou that Tellest Good Tidings, in which Mrs. Sheridan's exquisite rendering of the solo part set the key for the chorus in this and the other choral numbers; passing to the joyous announcement of the Incarnation in the brilliant chorus, For Unto Us a Child is Born; suggesting then the wonderful Life in the two great solos, for contralto and soprano voice respectively, He Shall Feed His Flock and Come unto Him, All Ye that Labor, numbers so like in their rhythm and feeling and at the same time so contrasting in the quality of the tone, and so superbly given in both cases; bringing the passion irresistibly to mind in that most wonderful of all contralto solos, He was Despised and Rejected of Men; celebrating the Resurrection in the sublime processional chorus Lift up your Heads, O Ye Gates; voicing the believer's hope of a like triumph over death in the beautiful solo for soprano voice, I know that my Redeemer liveth, in which, as in her previous, Solo Miss Glenn appeared to fine advantage; and rising to the great climax in the noble Hallelujah Chorus—the effect was that of the whole work in small, and was most appropriate both to the anniversary occasion and to the Christmas season.

This notice would not be complete without a word as to the work of the chorus. There could not be more suitable material out of which to organize an oratorio chorus than a body of college students. Their superior intelligence, the freshness and strength of their voices, their quick sympathy, their power of ready response to suggestion, combine to make them ideal material on which to work. That Professor Oliver knows how to use his material to the best advantage was admirably demonstrated by the work of the University chorus on Friday night. The strength and smoothness of their tone, the precision of their attack, the unity of movement, the life and vigor of every number, and the reserve power that enabled them to carry the effect steadily upward to the great climax, reflected the highest credit both upon the conductor and upon the singers, and makes all who were present look forward with keen anticipation to hearing them again at the May Festival, for which they are already preparing.

TONIGHT,

Damon and Pythias is to be presented at the City Opera House this evening. The last rehearsals guarantee that the production will be one of the best things seen there this year. The costumes will be the finest seen in Wooster this year, having been rented at a great expense from Wm. Krause of Cleveland. Prof. Kirkpatrick and Elbert Moses will appear in the title roles with Miss Bissell as Cilanthe and Florian Fraser as Dionysius. While the setting of the play is Greek, it is not a "Greek Play," the action being as strong and vital as that of any modern piece.

The University of Munich has opened its doors to women. It is the first in Germany to do so.

Tonight—Damon and Pythias.

With this issue, the VOICE appears for the last time this term.
After the customary round of nerve shattering examination, the usual merry Christmas and the happy New Year we hope to meet you again with columns full of basket ball victories, subscriptions to our endowment fund and of honors come to Wooster.

"Exams" with all their attendant pomp and circumstance are athand. To cram or not to cram is now the paramount issue. The answer to many depends upon what they have done during the term. On the other side, the end in view makes a difference. If the one idea is to pass the "exam" with flying colors cramming may be "a present help in time of need". But if an accumulation of knowledge is desired some other means of securing it must be resorted to. It will not come from cramming.

Don't steal your way through your "exams." There have been people who have succeeded in doing it but it is not the best thing to do. On the other hand the professors should give their students credit for common honesty. The professor who watches every student on the hypothesis that he is a potential sneak, takes away the feeling of being put on his honor that every man feels when a professor places trust in him.

As a general thing, Wooster professors regard their students as men and women of character and are willing to treat them as such at examination time as well as at other times. When this attitude is taken by every professor, things will be as they should be.

Subscriptions to the VOICE may be paid at the Treasurer's office.

Y. M. C. A.

The meetings of the Y. M. C. A. have been marked by better attendance this term than ever before. Last Wednesday night, over seventy men assembled in Chapel basement for prayer. Mr.
Ormsbee led the meeting. During the course of his remarks Mr.
Ormsbee brought out many helpful thoughts. The subject discussed was, "The help confession brings." The gentleman touched on the objective and subjective sides of the topic. The true man never leaves other men in doubt as to where he stands in relation to Jesus Christ. Many men try to serve Christ in secret, but they are not meeting the requirements laid down by the great Master, for he said we must confess Him before men if we want Him to confess us as his followers before the Father in Heaven.

We need not think that because we are not leading perfect lives we therefore can not confess our beliefs in Jesus Christ. None of us is perfect. The Christian life is a growth. "Daily with souls that cringe and plot we Sinai's climb and know it not."
In adversity we win our victories.
No man should think that first he must become perfect of himself before he presents himself before God. We must present ourselves to Him just as we are.
God knows we are sinners, He knows we fail often times. We must trust in His mercy. Such were some of the thoughts brought out in the leader's talk and the testimonies given in the later part of the meeting.

There will be one more Y. M. C.
A. meeting this term. The topic will be, "Helping others to work," Matt. X:15-20. Mr. E. M. Mowry will conduct this service. Let every man in the school turn out and help to make it the very best meeting of this term. And as we go our various ways for vacation, let us each remember to take Christ with us as a guest.
Let us give Him the very best we have to give.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. will not meet next Wednesday evening and the first meeting of next term will be held Wednesday evening of the week after the opening of the term. Leader, Miss Keener.
Topic, Self Mastery.

Wherever this is possible, of course it is desirable, but thus far we have taken notes, payable on or before one, two, three or even five years, with five per cent interest on all amounts remaining unpaid. Many are likely to be interested in establishing a perpetual scholarship by the gift of $1,000, which pays the tuition annually, of a young man or young woman. It is my hope that every church in the state shall have such a scholarship, which shall be available for the children of the pastor or any others whom the Board of Trustees of the church might select.

I spent ten days in the East hoping that I might give you the encouragement of some outside help on our million to raise. I was obliged to return empty handed. The answer came from every quarter, "Ohio is rich. Ohio must take care of her own educational institution. I must give my money to institutions west of the Mississippi." Mr. Carnegie replied, "I do not see my way clear to assist further."

If we are all awake to what it will mean to our great work as a church to accomplish that which the Assembly requests of us, it can be done even though it must be done in small sums. We have already $112,000 pledged in our own state toward the million."

Wooster's Volunteers

In Active Service on the Field.

While many of Wooster's alumni are winning honors for their Alma Mater at home in the ranks of the physicians, lawyers, politicians, teachers and ministers of the country, her sons and daughters who volunteered for Foreign Mission Service, while still under her care, are among the foremost ranks of those who are accomplishing great things for the Master's cause.

Anna Ewing, who graduated in '01, has already been of great service at Woodstock Seminary, India, where she is now located. At the time of her arrival, the spiritual life of the seminary was at a low ebb, but with true Wooster zeal, she set to work. As a result, largely due to her prayer and effort, Woodstock Seminary has experienced a great revival.

Lois Lyon, a classmate of Miss Ewing's is diligently at work acquiring the Chinese language at Soochow, China. She is just entering the ranks, but we who know her, are sure that her work will lack nothing that love and consecration can accomplish.

Miss Lyon's brothers Dr. Chas. Lyon, '95, and D. Willard Lyon, '91 are also on the field, in China. The former is located at Chining-chow, where he is carrying on a great work. Dr. Lyon won a competitive scholarship at the University of Pennsylvania when he entered the medical department there. D. Willard Lyon is prominent as a secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Movement. He is located at Shanghai.

W. M. Campbell, '95, is another Wooster man who is at work upon the mission field. He is at Kuing-Chow, Hainan, China, and is being considered as a suitable man to take charge of the college soon to be established there.

Last Spring, many of us had the privilege of hearing J. Campbell White's address to the Y. M. C. A. of Wooster University. Mr. White, who graduated here in '91, was president of the Y. M. C. A. during his senior year, and did most efficient work while in that position. After his graduation, he spent a year or two as one of the traveling secretaries of the Volunteer Movement. He then went to India to represent the Y. M. C. A. in a college population of twenty thousand in Calcutta. When there arose a need of a Y. M. C. A. building he went to England and there raised $50,000 for this purpose. He has lately accepted the call of the Presbyterian Church to become Field Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions with a view toward arousing the Presbyterians all over the country and raising funds for mission work.

The Case Tech contains an interesting account of the establishment and growth of the Roman system of Water Works, as it was in its early magnificence. The article is written by an ex-president of Case, and will prove of interest to any reader.

The American Journal of Psychology has issued a special number in honor of its founder, G. Stanley Hall, who also was the first to establish an experimental school in Psychology. The number is exceedingly interesting, tho' perhaps to the average reader an excellent discussion on the Psychology of Dreams would be lost, as it is written entirely in French.

Perhaps in no way has American Journalism made greater advancement than in the appearance of the publications. Almost marvellous is the recent improvement in illustrating, as is shown especially in the monthly magazines. Harper's and Century have been vieing with each other in producing absolute works of art. Especial attention is called to the Florentine Villas appearing in the November and December numbers.

The Wooster Quarterly, formerly the Post Graduate, for the present quarter, has appeared. The presentation of a thesis in every number is continued, this number giving a discussion of "The Question of Freedom," by Rev. William Porter Lee, of Germantown, Pa. The Alumni Round Table has been enlarged and is full of breezy stories of the work of Wooster men and women.

Queen Quality

Imitators

When every store is selling a so-called "Shoe for Women," it does not mean that they have a demand for such a shoe from their customers. It means simply that they realize the enormous success of the "Queen Quality" shoe, and want to imitate that shoe and secure some of this trade. But they cannot imitate it! If they could, do you want an imitation when you can have the original "Queen Quality" at no greater expense? It is a fact that shoe-styles originate on "Queen Quality."
